

TO THE PERFECTION OF HONOUR,

My Lord
H E N R Y,
EARLE of South-hampton.

VHilst other men study your Titles (Honourable Lord) I doe your Honours; and finde it a nearer way to giue actions, then words: for the talking man commonly goes about, and meetes the iustice at his errours end, not to be beleeu'd. Yet, if in modest actions, the circumstances of singularitie, and profession hurt not; it is true, that I made these Compositions solely for your Lordship, and doe here professe it. By which time, I haue done all that I had in purpose, and returne to my silence:

Where you are most honor'd
